

A woman with dark hair, wearing a red button-down shirt, is smiling and looking at a smartphone. A man with short brown hair, wearing a pink polo shirt, is smiling and looking at a pen in his hand. They are sitting at a table covered with various papers, including architectural sketches and diagrams. A blue folder and a small white object are also on the table. The background shows a modern office environment with a green wall and a white door.

Ellora® Well

The Ellora family is all about providing power for everyone at the table. And with Ellora Well, we've taken it up a level. Or should we say down? Generously proportioned below the worksurface, Ellora Well welcomes even the largest power adapters out there—including the mighty Mac charging brick—so laptops charge fast and out of sight. Its deep well design allows for easy cord management too, with power and USB options to accommodate your whole team. All this tucked under a seamless, soft-closing lid for a clean, modern appearance. Looking for a streamlined solution to your oversized charging needs? Just dig a little deeper—with Ellora Well.
